Assessing the impact of learning and development interventions on organizational performance continues to be a challenge. Delineating the impact of learning interventions from other initiatives can be very complex, and measuring the financial return on investment can be proof-daunting.

This webinar explores the Return on Expectations approach developed by James and Wendy Kirkpatrick. It offers a more stakeholder-centered approach to determine the ultimate impact of learning and development initiatives. CLP's Regional Project Manager, Dr. Lois Parkes, will be the guest presenter for this session.
