

Last Chance to Register for CLP's Webinar on Migration and Climate Change in the Caribbean Context

Date: May 7, 2019

Time: 9:45 am - 11:00 am (Eastern Caribbean Time)

Venue: CLP's WebEx Platform

Register: Click here to register now!

Given that the Caribbean region, like all other small island developing states (SIDS) is negatively impacted by climate change, it is essential that policy makers focus their attention on one of the major implications of this phenomenon - migration. Climate change has now become a major push factor for migration internationally.

This webinar focuses on the phenomenon of Climate Change in the Caribbean context and the implications for migration and migration policies. Our guest speaker will be Mr Pablo Escribano, Regional Thematic Specialist from the Migration, Environment and Climate Change Division of the International Organization for Migration.

Join us for what promises to be a very stimulating session!

Please share this invitation with all your colleagues, so that they too will benefit from this webinar!

Follow us on twitter

View our profile on LinkedIn

 Like us on Facebook

View our videos on YouTube

